FOCUS

Respect the Right of Others to Learn

This looks like:

- Listening when the teacher is talking
- Listening when your peers are talking
- Getting to class on time.
- Having the right equipment
- Having equipment, like a pen and a book

Can you add to this list?

Discussion and Brainstorming

“Why is it important that we respect the right of others to learn?”

Responses could be:

- We all have the right to an education
- We all have the right to be listened to
- We all get the maximum amount of learning time out of classes
- We are demonstrating that we are being responsible for our own learning and that of others

Activities

A Channel 10 news report on “Living on a Waste Dump” (PNG) could be a good starting point for discussion about how lucky we are to have an education.

A feature article about “Somali Children Missing out on an Education”, once again a short clip that could bring about discussion on the importance of an education and how we take it for granted.
